REASON FOR WITHDRAWAL

This review has been withdrawn from Issue 4, 2008. An update is in progress which includes the publication of a revised and updated protocol (published in Issue 4, 2008) by Bilby et al. It is anticipated that a substantive update of the review will appear in 2009.

WHAT'S NEW

Last assessed as up-to-date: 13 July 2003.

| Date | Event | Description |
|----------------|---------|---------------------------------|
| 13 August 2008 | Amended | Converted to new review format. |

HISTORY

Review first published: Issue 3, 2004

| Date | Event | Description |
|---------------|--|---|
| 14 April 2004 | Amended | Minor amendments made 4/15/04 |
| 14 July 2003 | New citation required and conclusions have changed | Substantive amendment. This review is a substantial update of a previous review (White P, Bradley C, Ferriter M, Hatzipetrou L. Managements for people with disorders of sexual preference and for convicted sexual offenders (Cochrane Review). In: The Cochrane Library, Issue 4, 2002. Oxford: Update Software) . This version focuses just on the psychological managements that have been evaluated in randomised trials and only for those who have been convicted of a sex offence or who are at high risk of offending. More trials have been identified allowing for a much broader view of the effects of treatment in this difficult area |
